E68：Journey to the West （The Woman in the Crowd 人群中的女人）上

单词数：338个　小初3500词　　DATE:

Wukong stared at the cave door, shocked. "I don't believe it. One-Horned Buffalo stole our weapons again!"

"What will we do now?" asked the fire god. "This demon's powers are stronger than any I've seen before," said Wukong. "I know one person who can definitely defeat him—Buddha. I'll be back soon."

The monkey leaped onto a cloud and soared toward the west. He arrived at the Thunderclap Monastery. A guard at the gate stopped him.

"I need to ask Buddha for help," Wukong told the guard. "It's about the Tang Monk's journey." The guard waved the monkey through. Wukong entered the monastery and bowed before Buddha.

"Greetings, Buddha," said the monkey. "I need —" Buddha held up a hand. "I know why you're here, Wukong. I also know who the demon is. You must go to Laozi for help."

"Oh, okay," said the monkey, a bit surprised. "Thank you." Wukong flew toward Heaven. "Laozi doesn't like me much," thought the monkey. "He won't be happy to see me."

When Wukong arrived at Laozi's house, the sage frowned. "What do you want, Wukong?" asked Laozi. "Buddha told me to come here," said Wukong. "The Tang Monk was captured by a demon called One-Horned Buffalo."

"Oh dear!" said Laozi. "Do you know him?" asked the monkey. Laozi nodded. "He's my green buffalo. I didn't realize he'd escaped."

"Well, he did," said Wukong, getting annoyed. "And he's planning to eat the Tang Monk. Your buffalo also has a metal ring. Every time we try to fight him, the ring sucks in our weapons!" Laozi held up his hands. "Okay, okay. I can capture the buffalo. Don't worry."

The sage went into another room. When he came back, he was holding a fan. "Let's go."

Wukong and Laozi returned to the mountain. "Buffalo!" shouted Laozi. "Get out here right now!"

The door flew open, and One-Horned Buffalo stepped outside. His face fell when he saw Laozi. Laozi raised the fan and brought it down fast. A fierce wind nearly knocked over One-Horned Buffalo.
